

On the clause allowing the Lt-Governor in council to appoint a secretary to the board, Mr. Jolly moved that a secretary be appointed by the board. The motion was lost.

Considerable discussion occurred on the clause relating to the location of school sites, which Mr. Jolly moved to be the centre of the district. The motion was lost.

A long time was occupied discussing the question of teaching English or French in the schools.

The committee rose at 17 o'clock and asked leave to sit again.

Council then adjourned.

Wednesday, Nov. 16.

The Lt-Governor took the chair shortly after 14 o'clock.

Mr. Ross reported from the finance committee, recommending that no action be taken in the matter of introducing an ordinance for the registration and taxation of drugists doing business in the Northwest Territories.

Mr. Ross also introduced a bill to amend and consolidate ordinance No. 12, respecting licensing billiard-tables.

The Lt-Governor introduced a bill to amend and consolidate the several ordinances respecting poisons.

Council went into committee of the whole on the bill respecting schools. The committee occupied a long time discussing clause thirteen which was finally amended to read as follows: "School districts shall comprise an area of not more than 25 square miles exclusive of road allowances, in length not exceeding five miles and which shall contain not less than four resident heads of families and ten children of school age which shall mean between the ages of five and sixteen inclusive." Sub clause "A" of section fourteen reads: "The school site shall be the centre of the district or as near as the securing of a dry, healthy and suitable location will permit." Annual grants are made to every school employing a teacher, male or female, holding a provisional certificate from the board of education; an annual grant of $250 to every school employing a teacher, male or female, holding a second class certificate from the normal school or from the board of education; an annual grant of $500 to every school employing a teacher, male or female, holding a third class certificate from the board of education; an annual grant of $250 to every school employing a teacher, male or female, holding a first class certificate from the board of education; an annual grant of $100 to every school employing a teacher, male or female, holding a second class certificate from the normal school or the board of education; an annual grant of $2 per child per annum to every school where the average attendance is at least eight for every child who has attended the school one hundred school one hundred school days, where the schools are only open during one term; an annual grant of $2.50 per child per annum to every school where the average attendance is at least six for every child who has attended school one hundred and sixty days where the school is open during both winter and summer terms. In the first-mentioned case the grant must not exceed $100, and in the latter case not more than $75. There are in addition grants on account of inspectors' reports, which provides for an annual grant of an amount not exceeding the total amount of capitation grant for attendance of children to every school district where the school inspector shall report favorably.

Judge Richardson had the following clause added: "The Lt-Governor may, whenever he thinks desirable in the public interest to do so, appoint a commissioner to examine into and report to him upon the condition of one or more schools, and such commissioner shall have all the power of a school inspector for such purpose, pending such examination no public money shall be paid to such school or schools."

The committee rose and reported the bill, which was ordered to be engrossed.

Council went into committee on the clause to amend the municipal ordinance of 1886, also ordinance No. 6 of 1886 respecting mode of assessment of taxes. Several amendments were made. The committee rose reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

Judge Richardson moved the adjournment till 14 o'clock tomorrow, the committee was aware it was a statutory holiday, but work was necessary.

Thursday, Nov. 17.

At the council to-day, Judge Rouleau presented a report from the municipal committee, and introduced a bill to incorporate the town of Moosomin. The bill was read a first time; a second reading to-morrow.

The Lt-Governor said he had several appeals from numbers who assumed, if business could be got through, to go home. Looking over the list until he found there were several reports yet to be made.

One was a report respecting branch railways; another was on the subject of future government for the Territories; another was the report of the agricultural committee on the bill to amend the ordinance of 1886; another was the land law ordinance. He hoped this had not been dropped.

Mr. Jolly said it had not been dropped. The Lt-Governor said there was also a petition from settlers at Calgary respecting the schools. He asked if it was likely that any action would be taken in that matter.

Judge Rouleau said he thought the school committee would have power to deal with that subject when there was a financial report.

Mr. Ross, chairman of the finance committee, said he had delayed his report until such time as the estimates, which were made up to June next, were ready. He said he would be able to report to-morrow. He wished to have the report printed.

There was also the Calgary gas company matter. Messrs. Rouleau, Turritt and Ross said it was probable they would get through Saturday.

Mr. Jolly moved that owing to the large increase of business, in the opinion of this council, as well as in the interests of the land department, the head land board should be established in the territories. He said the present state of things was not desirable. They had to communicate with Winnipeg and this had called forth a good deal of dissatisfaction. The time had arrived when some kind of a board was needed in the territories.

Council went into committee of the whole. Mr. Haultain in the chair, to amend the ordinance providing an additional clause for the joint stock companies act. The new clause provides for the mode of incorporation, prohibition and penalties, enforcement of penalties and arbitration. The committee reported the bill with certain amendments.

Council went into committee of the whole on the bill to incorporate the Calgary Gas and Waterworks company. Certain clauses were allowed to stand. The committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit to-morrow.

Council went into committee of the whole on the bill respecting municipalities and occupied some time considering the bill. The committee finally rose and reported the bill with an amendment. The bill was ordered to be engrossed.

Council adjourned till ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

The Council was closed on Saturday last but reports of the last two days proceedings are crowded over till next issue.

Take Your Own SKIN!

The above phrase that is being often quoted by speakers and writers is not of modern date, but is said to have originated in the early settling up of this country, when according to there was war and bloodshed between the Indians and the whites. One of these skirmishes the Indians captured a white man and started on a forced march. They had some skates, and putting them in a sack concluded to make a pack-horse of their prisoner—force him to sit on them. These pathes led through a rough, rocky wilderness for the night, the unfortunate prisoner, who had struggled through the long hours of the day with his heavy burden upon his shoulder, with his bare feet bleeding, sat by the rough nest, approached the camp. Looking and falling in the face of exhaustion, he had fainted in his sack.

He awoke, and said to his own self: "I am going to sit on my own skin." Take Your Own Skin!

A number of old and heavy-like gold and silver bars were exhibited in the annual festival of the fall.

NORTH WEST GOVERNMENT.

The Northwest Council has recommended to the Dominion Government that Parliament grant a council or legislature to the Northwest Territories of twenty-five members, wholly elective, and that the Lieutenant-Governor carry on his executive functions by and with the advice of an executive council of three members who shall be members of the legislature.

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.

The Temperance Convention held at Regina on Tuesday last was attended by delegates from Broadway, Grenfell, Welsley, Ellisboro, Qu'Appelle, Regina, Moose Jaw, Maple Creek, Calgary, Wascana and Battle River. The convention was the thoroughly representative in its character and its deliberations were conducted in a most harmonious spirit, although animated discussions took place on some of the questions submitted for consideration. The permissive liquor clause of the Northwest Territories Act was the subject of the most discussion, portion of the delegates being in favor of continuing the law for some time longer and asking for greater restrictions in the issue of permits. The gauntlet having been thrown down by the liquor party in asking through the Northwest Council that the law be repealed without a vote of the people being taken, the convention declared itself in favor of continuing the law and limiting the permits to medicinal, mechanical or scientific and sacramental purposes. The delegates present organized themselves into an association to be known as "The Northwest Prohibitory League." The object of the League is to resist the introduction of a license law into the Territories, and to promote the retention, protection and enforcement of a prohibitory liquor law. The organization will be composed of the general officers, an executive committee, and branches throughout the Territories. The convention accomplished much useful work, and it is to be hoped that temperance people everywhere will avail themselves of the opportunity of organizing under the League to carry on the work inaugurated.

It is with no small degree of satisfaction that we notice the position taken on the temperance question by Mr. Rold, Crawford, one of the members for this district in the Northwest Council. We are pleased that Mr. Crawford was found on the right side of the question at the session. We state this the more readily because we had occasion to criticise his action last year. Our other representative, Mr. V. Sutherland, in Committee of the whole advocated a submission of the whole question to the people before any change in the present law was asked for, and opposed the resolutions of the Council asking that the prohibitory clause in the Northwest Territories Act be repealed. We congratulate Mr. Sutherland on the stand he has taken on this question. We will take occasion to discuss the action of the Council on this and other questions more fully in future issues.

True to its mission the Regina Journal took exception to our remarks of two weeks ago on the manner in which Lt-Gov. Lt-Governor Dewdney had exercised his executive functions. The Journal does not venture a straight denial of our statements, but adroitly tries to break their force by insinuation and asks for information. If our contemporary is ignorant, whether wilfully or otherwise, it is no part of our duty to go into particulars to enlighten its editor or against his will. It is sufficient for us to be assured of the correctness of our statements when making them.

Painting Black Eyes.

The leeching and painting of eyes, discolored through misfortunes which their victims call by various names, has become quite a profitable business, particularly in a country which is situated in the center of the district occupied by the brushtail frontier.

"You see I am pretty busy," said one of Philadelphia's most successful eye-disguisers to a reporter for The Press of that city, as he ushered a very pretty young lady out of the office and resumed his seat, placed within easy reach of his materials. "I have a large collection of eye materials," he went on, pointing to a collection of boxes containing various colored paints, and taking up a bottle of healthy, slimy, squirming leeches. "You would be interested to see the patients with whom I have to have their discolored features made perfect again. There are old ladies, well-dressed, daintily-gloved lady, who, for once, use the street-cars instead of her carriage down to the ragged piazza, to whom, as a rule, she is a welcome visitor; and there is a young lady, evidently a brat, come here with a bushy squirrel and blackened eye. While I was leeching it she told me how her hair had struck her eye against the corner of a dressing-table in stooping to pick up her scissors, which she had dropped on the floor. I, as a doctor, am compelled to treat her, and as she is about to marry the young man who has yealded the door was hastily opened and a gentleman appeared, with a face very much the worse for three long scratches on the left cheek. The lady looked up startled, clenched her small hand, drew with anger, and perhaps there would have been a more violent struggle had not the doctor, who was about to apply the leeches, held the door was hastily opened and a gentleman appeared, with a face very much the worse for three long scratches on the left cheek. The lady looked up startled, clenched her small hand, drew with anger, and perhaps there would have been a more violent struggle had not the doctor, who was about to apply the leeches, held

"Do you visitors tell you how they treat their women?" "Yes, yes, yes; I never tell. You are generally eager to explain how stupidly they can against a door leftajar in the dark. That is almost always the story told by the ladies, although some very it is with call to have their discolored features made perfect again. ## ARCTIC EXPLORERS.

BY BILL SYKES.

This exciting chapter comes to an abrupt close with the death of Mr. Grinnell, the son of the American sportsman, his interest in what I may term that great and interesting race to the north. I may be pardoned for using a pun, for my own mother's name is Grinnell. We have had back across the bleak waste of Arctic land, two who won wonderful progress, but lost their lives in the discovery of the pole. We may then turn to the next, who will be the first to his success in reaching the pole, and the last to live to tell the tale.

Two or three years after Eric the Red was a Northman, he discovered the long shadow of the earth, and the land of ice.

He sailed around in that country for several years, drinking bear rum and bear's oil and having a good time. He wore fur underclothes all the time, winter and summer, and was a hardy, long-lived, long-limbed, long-lashed, Eric the Red.

Eric also established a settlement on the south-east coast of Greenland in about latitude 65 to 67 degrees north. These people remained here for some, subsisting on seal meat, bear oil, seal skins, and bear's oil and seal fat oil. But finally the people became red with the quiet country life, and the backward springs that they removed from there to a land that is fairer than day, to wear out of another. They removed during the summer, and the backward springs, and all they held dear, including their names.

From that on down to 1880 we hear varied and disconnected accounts of people who have been lost, or who have survived, and their stories are almost as varied as the men who tell them.

The polar bear, with his wonderful tentative facilities, has succeeded in retaining his hold on the hearts and minds of all who have come to the Arctic.

Men have taken their lives and a few of them have been lost.

But the most remarkable of all was the loss of Eric the Red.

In 1880 two Italian men took load of sun-kissed bananas and made a voyage to the Arctic to sell them.

They had a large child, made a survived, and the story is that the two separate occasions, the history of their voyage is not very much known, but the time of their return to Italy is known.

—At the Queen's: J. Buckley, W. T. J. McIvor, E. J. McKay, Fort Qu'Appelle; J. M. Blackwood, Blackwood; G. Dunlop, A. Owen, Toronto; W. W. McMillan, J. M. Carlyle, 1st Vice-President; G. N. Atkinson, Moose Jaw, 2nd Vice-President; James Weidman, of Qu'Appelle, Secretary. The five delegates attending the Convention were appointed an executive committee, the officers and committee to act till the first annual meeting of the Alliance.

Among the resolutions passed were the following:

That this Convention, while fully realising the difficult position in which the Lieutenant Governor of the Northwest Territories is placed by having imposed upon him the full responsibility of issuing permits under the Northwest Territories Act, recognises that the present Northwest Liquor Law is of inestimable value to the country, and believing that more stringent measures are necessary to make it fully effective, and tending the adoption of such measures, would respectfully ask that the Lieutenant Governor use every means in his power to curtail the issue of permits, as they are sometimes used for unlawful purposes and frequently under the proper enforcement of the law.

A resolution recommending that permits be issued for medicinal, mechanical and sacramental purposes only.

Decided Success.

TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.

Northwest Prohibitory Alliance Organized.

Qu'Appelle Council, of the Royal Templars of Temperance, on the 17th October last appointed a Committee to call a Convention of Temperance men throughout the Territories. The committee opened correspondence with a number of Temperance men in different parts of the Northwest and after receiving numerous favorable replies issued a call for a Convention to be held at Regina on the 22nd inst. Considering the shortness of the time from the date it was first mooted till it was held the attendance at the Convention was most gratifying to the committee. Public meetings had been held at different points and delegates appointed to attend. Among these present were Rev. J. F. Fetts, Calgav; L. Rankin, Maple Creek; E. Colpitts, H. C. Battell and R. L. Alexander, Moose Jaw; Rev. A. Unphar, Rev. G. Daniel, J. W. Smith, C. J. Atkinson, W. Hind, T. Pirrett, N. F. Mackay, an W. E. Comey, Regina; Rev. P. F. Langill, Rev. A. Andrews and James Weidman, Qu'Appelle; William Howey, Wolseley; L. Thomson, Elliston; W. A. Cooke, Grenfell; Rev. J. Proby, Broadview; John Ross, Battle River; J. Callister, Wascana.

Rev. A. Andrews, chairman of the Committee calling the Convention, outlined the initiatory work done by the Committee and nominated Mr. L. Thompson, chairman of the Convention. The motion being seconded was put and carried. Mr. James Weidman was appointed secretary, and he being also Secretary of the Committee read a report of the work done by the Committee and a synopsis of the answers to the questions sent and to all parts of the Territories. The replies to the questions made a good showing in favor of prohibition.

The morning session was spent in the interchange of views on the operations of the present law and the suggestion of questions to be considered. Committees were appointed to report on suggesting change in the law, on organization and on resolutions. The reports of the committees were considered at the afternoon and evening sessions. The committee on organization reported a constitution for the Northwest Prohibitory Alliance, which with some amendment was adopted. The officers of the Alliance were elected at the evening session and are as follows: G. H. V. Balyan, of Qu'Appelle, President; J. G. Turiff, M.N.W.C., Carlyle, 1st Vice-President; G. N. Atkinson, Moose Jaw, 2nd Vice-President; James Weidman, of Qu'Appelle, Secretary. The five delegates attending the Convention were appointed an executive committee, the officers and committee to act till the first annual meeting of the Alliance.

Among the resolutions passed were the following:

That this Convention, while fully realising the difficult position in which the Lieutenant Governor of the Northwest Territories is placed by having imposed upon him the full responsibility of issuing permits under the Northwest Territories Act, recognises that the present Northwest Liquor Law is of inestimable value to the country, and believing that more stringent measures are necessary to make it fully effective, and tending the adoption of such measures, would respectfully ask that the Lieutenant Governor use every means in his power to curtail the issue of permits, as they are sometimes used for unlawful purposes and frequently under the proper enforcement of the law.

A resolution recommending that permits be issued for medicinal, mechanical and sacramental purposes only.

Also recommending the appointment of a detective force to aid the police in enforcing the law.

Also, appointing a Committee to wait on His Honor the Lieutenant Governor and represent the views of the Convention.

Also, appointing a Committee to prepare memorial and petition to the Dominion Government.

Also, that this convention has great pleasure in acknowledging the course taken by Mr. W. D. Pogley, M. P., in the Dominion parliament in voting in favor of Prohibition at the last session of that body, thereby carrying out the pledges given to his constituents on that question prior to the election, and we would also express most heartily our satisfaction with the course of those members of the N. W. Council who advocated the cause of prohibition there.

Also, a vote of thanks to the C. P. R. for reduced fares to those attending the Convention.

And to Judge Richardson and Sheriff Benson for the free use of room in the court house.

Also, fixing the second Wednesday and Thursday in June next as the time for holding the annual meeting of the Alliance and the next Convention, both to be held at Qu'Appelle.
